

One more time to do what I want,

One more thing to come and pass me bye;

One more reason to live by and mean,

One more blessing to give and not let die.

One more time for people who care,

One more person to smell of the air;

One more poem to read and to write,

One more prayer to offer up to God.

One more time to sit back and listen,

One more song to sing along with joy;

One more artist to paint a rich picture,

One more buyer to buy a new book.

One more time to look at my watch,

One more second to have and not botch;

One more minute and hour to have at hand,

One more day and year for a band in the strand.

One more time to think and tell the truth,

One more drink to bring out all the proof;

One more way to come back over again,

One more how do you do to retain.

One more time to acknowledge all you can,

One more line to link and rhyme the plan;

One more story told in the words of a verse,

One more glory for never ending love of nurse.

Signed,

What's next? Money!
