

Tradition is a word held by conservatives and conformers,
To uphold the moral values of our God and king;
They will not bend or break the rules of right living,
But hold heads high and walk with moral dignity.

Tradition is upholds a way of moral values,
It's maintaining the right and belief in what is worthwhile;
Tradition means keeping things the way they were meant to be,
It is maintaining and consisting of what is right and noble.

God is at the helm and reigns and upholds the earth,
Where His people live and worship Him in moral admiration;
Where the humble bend the knee to confess their sins to Him,
Where people live in happiness and divine liberation.

Tradition is a freedom of grace with service and respect,
Where honour and glory are the saving arms of God;
And the moral code of conduct is sublime and superfluous,
To live in peaceful unity of love and adoration.

Tradition upholds and maintains values, I will say it again,
That the people may see where to go and how to actually be;
That the beauty of morality is the central cost and focus,
Of a world in perfect order living to maintain it.

Tradition is the fruition of a world that lives in peace,
Where heaven holds the kingdom of eternal reign within;
Hell is the price to pay, but by God it is worth it,
Then know the truth of right and wrong is Gods most precious purpose.

Signed,

Peace Within.