

The product of Parsifal is the writing of poetry,

From schizophrenic past to a brand new personality;

This interchange of character is indiscriminate and all unbiased,

As the logical progression and advancement manages priority.

The perfect simulation of the structure of the product is clear,

As it is he himself who evolves into a saleable commodity;

Which understands and comes to appreciate the value of life,

As he gradually inspires imagination and the avoidance of strife.

The change and evolution which raise him through stages,

And steps gracefully through the hierarchy of very many pages;

As the beautiful metamorphosis of metaphoric poetry in words,

Brightens up the future as he leads brilliantly in coloured worth.

Like the birds sing from their heart in all the voice of heaven,

He lifts up the minds of others to dwell in higher levels;

And lovely as it sounds and lives to show and guide the way,

The person is in the creation of the characteristics of each day.

So how magnificent it is to be finally becoming yourself,

As you live to inspire the lives of others and sell myself;

But the problem of the poetry is to create the will and desire,

As the people need to learn and study to engage with the choir.

And God has the reigns and victory as he gently guides his way,

That he may no longer play the fool but must love and well obey;

For this service he provided is magnified in the doing good,

Where the weather doesn't matter just the skills to love God.
