

Parsifal Self Centres

WHAT LIFE IS ABOUT

Life is a personal thing to be shared by many. Self centering on what matters to you and me is a joy to know and demonstrate. If Jesus Christ is the centre of our lives then we know the joy and love of a God meaning and purposeful life. If we focus too deeply on what is inside us and delve into the important things that mean and matter to us, we can become ecotistical and proud. This is a fruit of our labour but needs close reflection on others to bounce things off and see the truth in relationship. As I look at this book, Parsifal Self Centres, it will not be so much how I think things are right and true, though there may be some influence from my personal opinions. Seemingly more on the way that Parsifal as a psychological being reflects on life and truth in the reality of everyday things. It is sometimes good to reflect on self as a truth to understand the kingdom of God, that Jesus says is within us all as we search and suffer for the meaning of life. Which is by very definition truth and reality. God holds the keys to truth and the meaning of life and as that picture evolves and turns out to show and reflect reality, it becomes an important measure of righteousness in all of our lives. As I get underway and start to write and you to read these depictures of words expressed logically in poetry, try and imagine the meaning and purpose of life as it is to each and everyone of us. Even though it is a self centred focus overall, still try to get the broader picture of a relationship of your personal being to the rest of the world. God loves us and gives us all wisdom as we try and reflect on His character as a worthwhile person to follow. May the truth of "God's Self," come to be relevant to each of us as we see ourselves in the eyes of other people and as we explore this deep and explorative meaning in poetry. Please enjoy reading Parsifal Self Centres for the understanding and benefit of each other. Darel.

INTRODUCTION

CHAPTER 1 Starting Off

1 First Thing First

Its time to get going,

With thoughts of originality;

Purposeful and meaningful,

Words of poetry in rhymes.

Now writing down lines of verse,

No need for practice or to rehearse;

It just matters that first things are first,

Starting of at your best, not your worst.

Time always happens in its own sort of way,

Getting to the bottom of things;

Is something you have to try to do all day,

Working hard to make sure it turns out and pays.

Its just a good idea to keep going with things,

From starting off first to ending wisely;

The air and the sky and not to despise me,

After all writing poetry is still free to read.

Still just trying to do things different a bit,

Or at least that is how it appears or seems;

First starting off and then finishing strong,

We will just have to see how far and long.

Signed,

Step by step.

Trying to think about it all;

Its so big and I am so small.

Trying to stand tall against the wall.

FINAL WORD

A Bit On Me

A bit on me at the end of the day, I woke up and went back to sleep. While I was writing this book of poetry a lot happened along the way. Anyway we are now at the end and the conclusion to the matter is that we all have enjoyed the journey. It has been a work in progress for a few months now and as things worked out it all came to rather a sudden end. I hope that you have liked the content and got something out of the written verses, they have been a joy and inspiration to write. As I said it is just a bit on me with know real income coming in for the poetry work apart from my pension. It would be nice if you all chipped in $5 each for a caring thought and each and every book for that matter, but nevertheless it is good to just have readers will to come back each time and see what is going on in Parsifal Enterprises. So as I said it is really just a bit on me to do the work for you with the loving nature of your passionate understanding and reflection on the rhymes and thoughts as they go down. I get to eat and buy new clothes and things as well as persevere in this life together with you. Life is tough and it is no good doing it alone all the time, we have to bounce things off other people to fathom and realize the hidden treasures of this world and the necessary undersanding of self lived personalities and the attraction and identity of others apart from yourself. I hope that you really did enjoy the ride this time as Parsifal reflected on himself and the greater picture of a God who loves and cares for us. There was plenty of meaning and meat in this book and meeting new people along the way has both inspired me and authenticated the righteousness of fresh life and work. Don't feel hard done by not writing it yourself, I am sure you could have, given half the chance. Still all in all it was another grand accomplishment which I hope you all got something out of to. Thanks to everyone who read Parsifal Self Centres, God Bless each one of you as we all go into a new book now I hope. Darel.
