

God wanted us to have faith as a mandate in our lives,
To do things right and accordingly to his vision and insight;
To look to Him in wonder of what all and each of us can do,
So that the world might attain accomplishment and heaven be right and true.

God wanted us to have faith when our hearts and heads are troubled,
That the purpose of the work would show reason and be doubled;
To try and understand that through aiming to get everything right,
We could walk the road of knowledge and learn to read and write.

God wanted us to have faith that there would be people who would care,
And accounting and economics would be found in constant prayer;
That the beauty and the trouble would balance and pay our ways,
And we live within the kingdom for all our glorious eternal days.

Now the suffering and the pain teach us where we have gone wrong,
And it is the faith that encourages us and leads us back to God;
For the simple things in life where we take for granted without care,
We must learn to get it right, to live long and breathe the air.

So the more can achieve through believing there is an answer in faith.
The more we understand that love can consolidate for Gods way;
As the hope we have in aiming for the best we can get in life,
Is through having faith in God and living for Him and to your wife.

God wanted faith so that our hearts would become more wise,
As so that if we used our heads in time we would go to him in the skies,
For heaven is his dwelling place and we try to have intellect of mind,
But the passionate love of understanding is as hard as every one of mine.
