

Imagine the feeling of flight in the sky,
It must be wonderful to have that feeling to fly;
So reach for the heavens and stretch out your wings,
As a bird leaves its perch and soars as it sings.

It's beautiful to be and feel freedom below,
As you climb so high everything else seems so low;
This is a love that we may only dare dream,
To believe in our hearts so its realness will seam.

These days there's planes that take off for heights,
And leave all us people in awe and delights;
To fly in this metal is so hard to believe,
As our earth grows small as the place will distort and deceive.

Now suffer such magic and you too may know,
The flight in the air and the go with the flow;
So dare if you wish to take up this plight,
Of the mystery and manual of flying and flight.
