

It's always black and white,
But there's always grey answer;
You never can know enough,
The more you think you know,
The more you realise what you don't know.

Life's like that it just keeps on going,
Always changing from nothing into something your knowing;
And what you are knowing was someone else's knowledge,
Of what is going on with you,
And you knowing what is going on with someone else
So just keep on going and follow your nose with what you knowing.

And of course even if you think you have the answer to life,
There's only one answer that's right and that's death;
For the idea of opposites is an attraction to all,
Like man and his wife you know the answer to life,
Better off forgetting it or checking it with your wife.

Now as life goes on in the course of the day,
And people get lost and people find their way;
Remember that life is not what's on top,
But the hustle and bustle you find in a shop,
And that's no answer or has meaning at all,
For there's money and sex but in life what's it for.

Signed,

Life's a ball on earth
