

A bit of a smile makes me happy,
It cheers me up and raises my spirits;
It puts me on high with a kind of laugh,
And fills me with happiness and gives style.

And now you are happy because life is fun,
In the pleasure of peace time under the sun;
Where heaven is plentiful land love turns aside,
To live and to laugh and cheer you inside.

As where the emptiness all slowly dissipates,
And the glory of paradise in the sky is displayed;
So you can see clearly your hearts full desire,
To enter the kingdom of great children's choir.

And the spirit of happiness is there to impress,
And to cheer up your life and make happy address;
As your smile fills your soul with a happiness heart,
That you're clever expenses are just a smile smart.

So a smile for a while is the purpose of life,
That endures and maintains and expands and expires;
Through the truth of the pain and suffering times,
To get to a better place in lines of rhymes.

Just like you look to the sky for the heavens to answer,
The question was chanced just like white horses dancing;
And in the meaning of life and it all the while,
Life is still simple just because you give smile.

Signed,

It doesn't hurt to smile
