

Maybe I'll be a landmark,
Maybe I'll be a arte dark;
Maybe I'll be a building,
But I will be a billionaire.

Maybe I'll own an airline,
Maybe the city skyline;
Maybe move a mountain around,
But I will have a money mound.

Maybe I'll see a thousand years,
Maybe time in eternity disappears;
Maybe I'll route an ocean liner,
But I will need people to refine higher.

Maybe I'll be worth a country,
Maybe I'll still value a gum tree;
Maybe I'll have an occasional ale,
Maybe I'll know enough drink to sink a whale.

Maybe I'll be mean and nasty as such,
Maybe I'll have it but won't need that much;
Maybe I'll help someone and give it away,
But I will be happy at the end of the day.

Maybe I'll buy cars and things,
Maybe I'll have castle and things;
Maybe I'll laugh when the earth seems small,
But I will want a woman who can have it all.
