

Well men will be men and boys will be boys,
If women fall into this category it will spoil all their joys;
You see God made men and women different and that's why,
There special in their own right but can be equal if they try.

Equality is not limited to opposites of sex alone,
But to all peoples and races and things that we own;
You see sharing is for all which in turn make us equal,
And this makes equality for rhyme and stories sequel.

People have a passion for things they can win,
And this can be funny with a harmless touch of sin;
You know when things are equal, there can't be a winner,
So equality has a way of making you a sinner.

So what are we going to do with this equality dilemma,
That's if there is a problem, that all things stem from;
I think that equality is best talked about,
And agree to disagree with honesty not doubt.
