

Everyone's sky, everyone's seas,
Everyone's universe, everyone's me;
Everyone's happiness and everyone's money,
Everyone's you, so why is it funny.

Everyone's lunch, everyone's dinner,
Everyone's a sinner, everyone's a winner;
Everyone's day and everyone's night,
Everyone's something but I've nothing to write.

Everyone's heart, everyone's mind,
Everyone's star, everyone's kind;
Everyone's voice and everyone's word,
Everyone's time, now that I've heard.

Everyone's you, so what can you do,
Everyone's me, I think it's plain to see;
Everyone's problem gives me some trouble,
Everyone's pain, not something to double.

Everyone's nice, everyone's pleasant,
Everyone's riches, everyone's pleasure;
Everyone's rain, everyone's poor,
Maybe the reign will make everyone pour.

Everyone's hands, everyone's feet,
Everyone's meat, everyone's meet;
Everyone's mood, everyone's food,
Everyone's sin must be everyone's habit.

Signed,

If you can have it
