

It looks pretty obvious you need intelligence to understand,

That the internet connection is to the website what we want at hand;

To look and find information and spend some time to read,

All the things you need to know and just who has got the lead.

The writing written for the reading in the type you need to know,

Like the thing was how the computer would work and the internet to go;

You say now grow a nice garden and the different work to do instead,

But the spider might bite you and the web to flow on the internet.

The currency is in the internet and the news, as money does, comes in time,

But for me the interest in the internet is hopefully my poetry in rhyme;

Now the mouse about the house and the pad is led to move,

That the change from paper to electricity the power to handle will improve.

When we've used up all resources and done it all the right way,

There's always something turning and changing the way of the day;

As people work at desks looking at screens to see, learn and play,

For the whether in the mind you can must trust the truth when grey.

Now there's a modem and an Ethernet to the link and to connect,

A router to direct you to the route you need to select;

As it goes around in circles a million times per second,

There's people getting answers and direction to the questions they have reckoned.

So the internet is a tool that will never let is down,

Or die a hopeless death unless God will give a frown;

For it's a fishy kind of story to be caught in the internet,

And the one who owns the glory sees it produce in the get.
