

I was just wondering what you are thinking of me,

While I was wondering in my mind down on paper for free;

For the cost was enormous but still someone had to pay the price,

For life is real cheap when there's no cost, but it tastes real nice.

I was just wondering what you seem to be doing with yourself,

As I was wondering along the road down the page with my pen;

While if there was nobody there, there would be none to compare,

For I worry if you are out there while I am alone in here.

I was just wondering if you think of me when I say I love you then,

For I was wondering along as if I had never seen now or when;

And you walk on by going down the street and I don't know why,

But I look into your eye and you're beautiful heart and I m high.

I was just wondering what is happening next, what the day will be to me,

I thought of wondering down the street to say hello to you and see;

But God said I am not finished with you yet and there's more to this rhyme,

And God only knows how long it will take and really just how much time.

I was just wondering if you really love me, for this I cannot deny,

That if I was wondering away from it all, could God in me rely;

And the beauty and brilliance is magic and tragic as I am left alone,

For without you in my day of God on his way, I would I still own.

I was just wondering that if I love you would you love me in return,

Because while I was just wondering through it all in my head if I burn;

For I want to go to heaven above where God is King of it all,

As now I'm in hell in this pit deep down here, trying to give you a call.

Signed,

God and Her
