

First was Andrew who prayed a prayer for life,

Second was Thomas who doubted and preferred his wife;

Third was Judas who betrayed the master for a price,

Who was replaced by Mathias who drew the lot from twice.

Â

Fourth was James the less who was a brother of Christ,

Fifth was John who wrote five books and the word so nice;

Sixth was Simon the Zealot who rhymed and picked the time,

These were the first six of the twelve disciples in my rhyme.

Â

The seventh disciple was Phillip who taught the Eunuch the word,

To understand the meaning so that he could preach and be heard;

Eighth was Nathaniel known as Bartholomew for under the tree,

Ninth was James the Great who humbled at the Lord to eat.

Â

Tenth was Thaddeus or Jude who spoke boldly of God,

Eleventh was Matthew a tax collector and sinner as odd;

Twelfth was Simon Peter who dented the Lord Three times,

A colourful character who the lord reinstated to feed my rhymes,

Â

Now we have Jesus himself the lord and master of our world,

Who beat death and cheated life to be king and makes things worth;

He is the one we follow and who all the twelve disciples followed to,

That I like he and me like you can come to the cross to be true.

Â

Well there is still one person who I can't forget or leave out,

That is God the Father the mighty creator of the universe and earth;

And he is the omnipotent all powerful one that Christ leads us to,

That the twelve disciples went out to serve to preach for the lord's return.

Â

Signed,

Â

Good old Moses