

I had a dream of learning to dance,

Of living my life just full of romance;

With a girl so nice I could hardly speak,

And when I took her hand I succumbed and grew weak.

It's beautiful to think of love along these lines,

To take her out to dinner and make subtle signs;

And romance has a way of touching your heart,

So delicate and lovely you can't believe it will start.

I think the time's come to start courting again,

To find one who's beautiful and who's heart I'll love then;

In life there's only one chance of which you must take,

That's deciding the wife for the love you will make.

So romance is like the bloom of a rose in the spring,

It's finding the right partner and buying a ring;

It's like two birds flown out far from their nest,

And sharing night and day till they come to a rest.

There must be a way of ending this rhyme,

With some kind of wisdom at such an important time;

I guess that this romance is now never to end,

As long as you know how to treat this new found friend.

When romance has started let love fill the air,

And talk over dinner of the things that you'll share;

You can buy roses or chocolate and all these nice things,

To make the fullness of romance and what love it brings.
