

So you think you can write well I've got news for you,

It's more like A fight with the contents in need to be true;

If someone's got a flair well that needs to be brought out,

And if you think you can't do it then your full of doubt.

Life's not too bad with A pen in your hand

Because you can express yourself and see things are planned;

Writing is for people, who believe in themself,

For those who have read all those books on the shelf.

Now there is not all that much left to say about writing,

Without appearing to be boasting or to look like your skiting;

So I'll tell you about something to cover all this,

Without shirking my responsibility and giving it the big miss.

You see I'm not writing for myself to retain all the joy.

For I'm not really that stupid but I am a Quite clever boy;

I'll write for the reason for all people to think,

In hope that as A person all things will link.

Signed,

The Writer.
