

Many a knight was taken to test,

As Parsifal road around on his mighty quest;

He searched for the grail and was the best,

But alas fell short of the question guest.

.

His heart was filled with romance and mortal love,

And his head was ruled by a dainty damsel dove;

He fought and he tried but alas couldn't match,

The God who lead him and the woman he couldn't catch.

.

There came a time in Parsifal's mind,

When he realized that it was God whose kind;

Well he turned to him in deep repent,

And through his heart his sword it went.

.

Now Parsifal's back in another time,

And is found in these words of this poem and rhyme;

Parsifal is God to judge the world our earth,

And is Jesus Christ renamed for our souls and birth.

.

Parsifal now takes forth his wife and bride.

Who was the church and is now by his side;

But first he must past the test from above,

Of going to Paris and falling in love.

.

The story goes on but is not finished yet,

He'll find the grail to redeem our debt;

He must seek wisdom for ever and ever.

So that the truth will remain eternally clever.

.

Signed,

For one and all.